

Earthquake's Toll Up 400

Brings Total to 750; More Than 3,000 Persons Missing

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—Rescue workers came across the bodies of 400 victims in two earthquake devastated villages in northern Iran today. The discovery boosted the over-all death toll to 750. More than 3,000 persons are missing.

The rescue workers uncovered the victims in the villages of Tighband and Sangchal. They had not been listed in previous reports.

Dishes Cause Man to Shoot His Tenant

Landlord Says Items Were Missing When Couple Moved Out

KANSAS CITY (AP)—"It was all about some old dishes. Now look what's happened."

So sobbed Mrs. Bonnie Meadors as she looked at the body of her 23-year-old airman husband, shot to death by his 75-year-old landlord, Walter H. O'Grady.

Police said O'Grady, orally admitting he shot Meadors three times with a pistol, told them he was disturbed because he noticed things were missing from an apartment the Meadors occupied in his home. Specifically he listed a carving knife, a fork, a cup and saucers.

Meador was shot as he and a fellow airman, Homer Gillham, 23, moved the last article of furniture from the apartment. Police said after the shooting, O'Grady walked back inside and finished eating his dinner. He was still at the table when arrested.

The Meadors and their 18-month-old son, George, moved into O'Grady's house June 8. The airman, of Kansas City, recently had returned from overseas duty and was stationed at nearby Richards-Gebaur Air Force Base. Part of the rental agreement, Mrs. Meadors said, was that they feed the elderly landlord.

"We couldn't afford it," she related. "We said we would move out . . . he told us we had until midnight July 2."

Meadors and Gillham had loaded household goods into a rented trailer except the refrigerator.

"He (O'Grady) told us we couldn't take out our refrigerator until those dishes were found," Mrs. Meadors told police. "I don't even know what dishes he was talking about. Just some little old cheap dishes. Leonard told him we had paid our hard-earned cash for the ice box and we were going to take it."

Denies Motion For Mistrial In Hoffa Case

WASHINGTON (AP)—U. S. Dist. Judge Burnita S. Matthews, today denied a defense motion for a mistrial in the bribery-conspiracy trial of James R. Hoffa, Midwest Teamsters Union boss.

The judge announced the denial without comment. The motion was based on a contention that John Cye Cheasty, key prosecution witness, had expressed racial views that might prejudice the jurors in his favor and against the defendants. There are eight Negroes on the jury.

Hyman I. Fischbach, Miami attorney, is on trial jointly with Hoffa. They are charged with planting Cheasty on the staff of the Senate Rackets Investigating Committee as a spy to report its secrets to Hoffa. Cheasty got a job with the committee but told it of the alleged plot.

Judge Matthews, after denying the mistrial motion, had the jurors brought into the courtroom and told them they must give no consideration whatsoever to the racial issue.

Rumors of Work Shift Are Denied; Layoffs Based on Load Slump

The layoffs at the Missouri Pacific shops are due to a drop in business and the recent washouts, but not from a shift in the work, according to information received from a reliable source Wednesday morning.

With the layoff of over 200 men at the shops on Tuesday a rumor was heard that the coach work was going to be done on a contract basis by a St. Louis firm.

However, the report of coach work being done on a contract basis was termed as "just another rumor" by the source.

HELD BY FRENCH—Specialist 3-c DeWayne McOsker of Manhasset, N.Y., above, charged with shooting an Algerian to death in Paris, is being held in a Paris prison for a trial that could result in death on the guillotine. A well-informed source has reported the French have turned down an informal request that they yield jurisdiction to the U.S. Army so McOsker could have a court martial. (NEA Telephoto)

House Faces Busy Time On Return

Expect Program To Require Sessions Daily Until Close

WASHINGTON (AP)—House members face a busy schedule when they return from their unofficial Fourth of July holiday next week.

Starting next Wednesday, House leaders have mapped out a legislative program they expect to keep the House in session daily, with perhaps some Saturday sessions, until final adjournment.

They are shooting for adjournment not later than the middle of August, barring such possible delays as a long Senate filibuster on civil rights. Should a filibuster of major proportions develop, the House probably would recess until the fall and let the Senate talk through the latter part of the summer.

The House started its holiday recess yesterday. The Senate scheduled a session today. Both officially meet again Friday, but both sessions will be perfunctory meetings to conform with rules which forbid a recess for more than three days in a row without a formal resolution. No business will be transacted.

On the House docket of unfinished business are many major troversals.

They include federal aid for schools, statehood for Alaska, authorization for the foreign aid program and appropriations to finance, limitation of access to FBI files in criminal cases, increases in postal rates, wage boosts for postal employees, the natural gas bill, and perhaps the Hell's Canyon bill, which a House subcommittee rejected yesterday.

In addition, the House still must act on appropriations for several big agencies and settle a controversy with the Senate over funds for the soil bank.

Battling Against Floods

Meramec River Tops Banks at Valley Park And Surface Flood Spreads Into Kennett

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Residents of two eastern Missouri communities today fought flood waters which forced more than 200 persons from their homes.

The Meramec River flooded low lying sections of Valley Park, a St. Louis suburb, where most of the stricken families lived. And a surface flood had spread into the principal residential district of Kennett in southeastern Missouri's Bootheel.

The Meramec appeared last night to have halted its rise at 32 feet, 18 feet above flood stage at Valley Park, where two blocks of the business district were under three feet of water. The owners had been warned in time to move their stocks.

Forty-three families were sheltered in the Valley Park High School. Four major highways in the area were under water.

The weather bureau predicted the river would be back within its banks by Friday.

At Kennett late last night, officials prepared to move in irrigation equipment to pump water out of an area of some 60 homes, where water up to five feet deep had remained standing all day. Twenty of the homes were surrounded by water but none was actually flooded. About a dozen families had moved out.

The Kennett area of Dunklin and Pemiscot counties also suffered severe crop damage from the surface flood. Three inches of rain poured down on the area over the weekend and the sector, which has no natural drainage, already was so saturated that the system of drainage ditches couldn't handle the runoff.

Hurricane Dead, Missing Number Raised to 700

LAKE CHARLES, La. (AP)—Official estimates of the dead and missing neared the 700 mark today in hurricane-battered southwestern Louisiana.

Sheriff Henry Reid of Calcasieu Parish said 296 bodies had been recovered, 122 of them unidentified. Dr. Harry Slatie, parish coroner, then added:

"I think at least 400 more persons are missing."

The sheriff said officials had definite word from relatives that 50 were unaccounted for but were sure many more missing had not been reorted. He urged all relatives to report the missing to his office.

The total property damage in the state was estimated at between 75 million and 100 million dollars by Carl Durrett of Lake Charles, head of General Adjustment Bureau Inc., which handles claims for insurance companies.

The bureau set up a claims agency in Cameron today to start processing claims on autos. Claims for other property will be handled later.

"Marsh buggies" of oil companies were called into service to shell the swamps for bodies. Shell Oil Co. sent two of the huge machines to the area and found 18 bodies.

Missouri's Holiday To Be Hot, Humid

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Missouri's Fourth of July will be hot and humid, says the weatherman.

On the precipitation side he sees only scattered thunder showers in the extreme north this afternoon, tonight and Thursday.

Thursday's highs will be generally in the 90s.

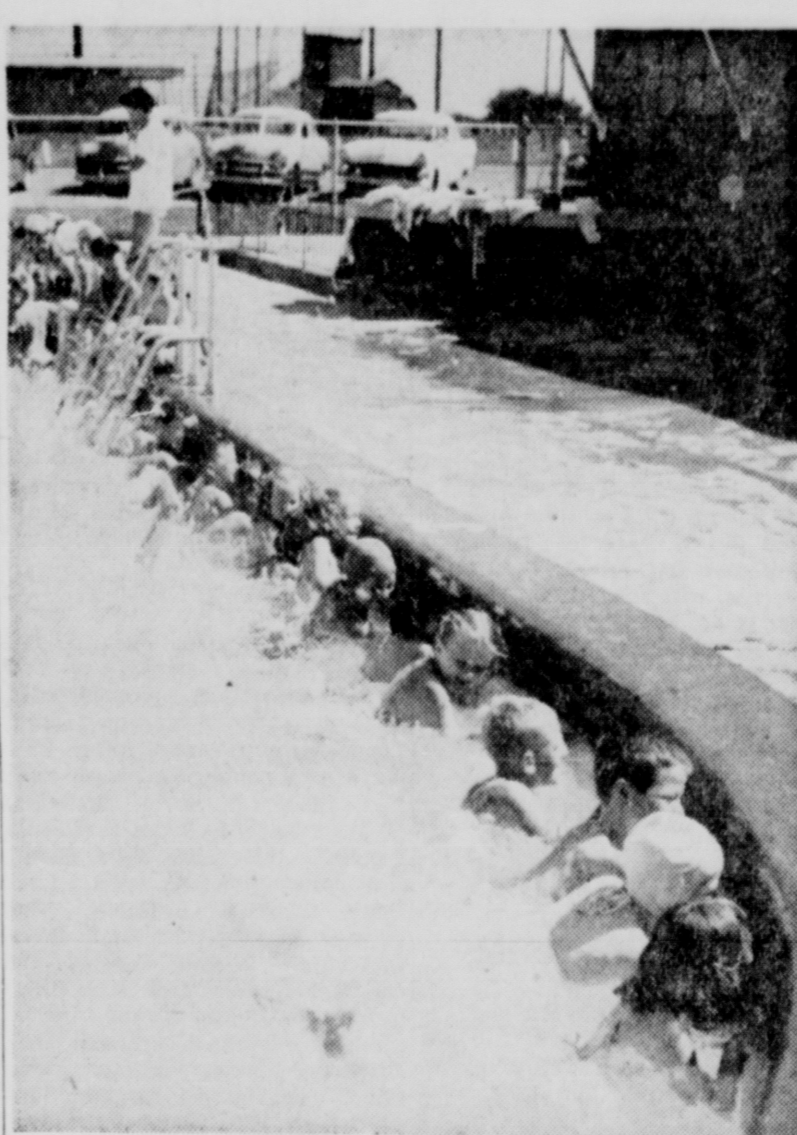

The only rain reported in the past 24 hours was .01 at Malden. Highest temperatures in the state Tuesday were 91 at St. Louis, and 90 at Joplin.

The extended forecast indicates temperatures of three to six degrees above normal in the southwest to near normal in the north and east. Rainfall is expected to be below normal.

Bomb Scare on Plane

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—A Trans-Texas Airways plane with 16 passengers and a crew of three aboard was called back last night and searched at Beaumont after an anonymous phone call warned of a bomb.

Another plane was searched before passengers were allowed to board. No bomb was found.

LEARNING THE RIGHT WAY—Once again the American Red Cross is offering free swimming instruction to beginning and intermediate swimmers this summer. The classes are divided in two groups, the first one completing its course this week. 347 students are in this group. Beginning next week, over 300 others will participate in the second group of instruction. The classes meet on Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday mornings from 8:30 to 11:30.

In charge of the classes for the local Red Cross is Mrs. Trudy Griffith, 512 Sunset, assisted by Miss Marion Yeaman, 1020 State Fair, and Benny Walter, 1004 East 13th. All are qualified Water Safety Instructors.

The Tipton Red Cross has classes for its residents at the Liberty Park Pool on Mondays and Wednesdays, being lead by Robert Powers. Approximately 125 from that area participate. The pool, consequently, is in use each morning of the week and many children are receiving valuable swimming instruction. (Democrat-Capitol photo)

Demotions Are Slated

Diplomats Get Reports of Big Changes in Top Soviet Staff

LONDON (AP)—Reports of impending sweeping changes among top Kremlin leaders reached diplomats here tonight.

The reports said three top members of the Presidium of the Central Committee of the Communist party—the high party directorate—were slated for demotion.

They were named as former Premier Georgi M. Malenkov; former Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov; L. M. Kaganovich, longtime boss of Soviet heavy industry.

Dmitri Shepilov, a candidate member of the Presidium, was slated also for demotion, the reports said. Shepilov succeeded Molotov as foreign minister in June 1956. He lasted until Feb. 15 of this year, when he was succeeded by Andrei Gromyko.

There has been no announcement of such moves by Moscow. The reports received here said the four Russians never accepted decisions of the 20th congress of the Communist Party in February, 1956, including denunciations of the dead dictator Stalin made by Nikita Khrushchev, the Communist party boss.

Reports of dissension among Kremlin leaders have filtered through to the West for several months.

A spokesman at the U. S. Embassy said that in the absence of confirmation from its own sources, he was inclined to regard them as "a trifle suspect." But he made it plain that fresher news from the Soviet capital might change the Americans' present view.

In Moscow, Pravda warned sternly that no man is too big to be expelled from the Communist party.

The official Communist party newspaper, in a prominent article and editorial calling for unshakable party unity, reminded the U.S.S.R.'s seven million Communists that Lenin did not hesitate to break "with all who did not prove susceptible to measures of education and persuasion and with all who went against the majority in the party."

Egyptians Elect Parliament Picked By President Nasser

CAIRO (AP)—Egyptians voted today to elect a Parliament hand-picked by President Nasser to give his military-dominated regime more of a civilian face.

Voters had a choice of candidates in 282 of the 350 constituencies involved. But the choice involved no risk for Nasser's ruling clique.

Parties are banned in Egypt, so political differences could not arise during the campaign — one of the duller in Egypt's history.

A total of 2,508 candidates were allowed to enter the race after thousands of others were banned as enemies of the state or potential troublemakers.

To further ensure against any effective opposition developing in Parliament, a government committee then screened the candidates and threw out half on general security grounds.

Spells Trouble

The sticky weather and the traffic snarls caused by holiday travelers add up to short tempers.

Considerable cloudiness tonight and Thursday; continued warm and humid; low tonight in upper 60s, high Thursday in lower 90s.

The temperature at 7 a.m. was 75, 89 at 1 p.m. and 90 at 2 p.m. Low Tuesday night 68.

The temperature one year ago today was, high 92, low 67, with 2.53 inches of rain; two years ago, high 92, low 72; three years ago, high 101, low 74, with .10 of an inch of rain.

Stage at Lake of the Ozarks 60.0, unchanged.

Ike Will Invite Fallout Check

Repeats Offer to Suspend Tests to Assist Agreement

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today he will invite all other nations to make on-the-spot checks of radioactive fallout at any future U. S. atomic weapons tests.

Eisenhower made the statement at a news conference in repeating that American scientists are convinced that given another four or five years, they can produce an absolutely clean hydrogen bomb.

Eisenhower also reiterated that the U. S. stands by its offer to suspend the atomic weapons tests temporarily in an effort to reach agreement on disarmament.

Eisenhower said this country means to go through with that offer to Russia even though it may mean the loss of some scientific advantage gained from testing of weapons. He was speaking of advantages in connection with peaceful use of atomic power.

Eisenhower's remarks about inviting other nations—presumably including Russia—to observe and check for fallout at any future U. S. weapons tests came as he talked again about the possibility of producing an H-bomb free of radioactive fallout.

He said if this country ever holds another nuclear weapons test he is going to invite every country in the world to put up its rockets (sic) to test the amount of fallout.

In using the term rockets, Eisenhower apparently was referring to methods scientists use to measure fallout. At another point he used the word instruments instead of rockets.

Eisenhower, in response to a request for elaboration, said he did not mean that he would disclose U. S. atomic formulas to nations testing for fallout. But he said he would be glad to ask any nation to put testing instruments in there.

From Eisenhower's use of the word "there," it seemed he had in mind the invited nations would have representatives on the spot for tests.

Among other topics arising in the news conference:

RIGHTS—Eisenhower said it is incomprehensible to him how anyone could regard his civil rights program as extreme. He was commenting on an argument by Sen. Russell (D-Ga.) who told the Senate yesterday it would herald a return to post-Civil War reconstruction days.

The President also said he doubts the civil rights program would make a very good subject for a referendum, even if you could have one. Russell had proposed that the program be put to a general referendum vote if it does pass Congress.

Eisenhower said the Constitution contemplates that federal officials are responsible for legislation, rather than the general public.

URANIUM — Eisenhower announced the United States is ready to grant what he termed considerably more uranium 235 to friendly nations for construction of atomic research and power reactors. He said the White House would put out details later.

The United States already has allocated about 40,000 kilograms of U235 for this program. This is about 38,000 pounds.

PRICES — Eisenhower avoided direct comment on the steel price increase put into effect by the industry, but he said again the government alone cannot keep a sound economy and a sound dollar.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—L. Ewing Scott will go to trial on a charge of murdering his wife Sept. 16. The date was set yesterday when Scott appeared in court and pleaded innocent to all charges against him in connection with his long-missing wife Evelyn.

The 61-year-old former stock broker is also accused of grand theft and forgery in his handling of her estate. Mrs. Scott has not been seen since she disappeared in May 1955.

Ike's Son Turns Down High Offer

To Stay in Army Even Though Pay Would Be Tripled

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Maj. John Eisenhower has turned down a chance to become an educator at three times his military pay because it would "look bad for the President's son to quit (the Army) for a better paying job," the Kansas City Star said today.

In a dispatch from his Washington bureau by Jack Williams, the Star said the President told Republican congressmen about his son's decision at a series of White House breakfasts. The President was described as being elated.

Williams did not say what type of position had been offered young Eisenhower. He said the name of the school that made the offer was not disclosed by the President but congressmen who heard the story deduced it was one of the large Eastern universities.

The Star said Maj. Eisenhower, father of four small children, was at first tempted by the offer and asked his father's advice. The President "told his son he would have to make up his own mind."

"Then Maj. Eisenhower returned to tell his father what he had decided to do," the story continued.

"He explained that the military was having trouble getting young men and young officers to stay in the service. It would look bad for the President's son to quit for a better paying job and he had decided to stick with the Army."

"The President's eyes twinkled as he talked about it with his congressional friends. He said it was a tough job being an Army officer and particularly so if you happened to be the son of the President."

Grand Jury Indicts 15-Year-Old Boy On Charge of Murder

KANSAS CITY (AP)—A Clay County grand jury yesterday indicted Salvatore Joseph Falbo, 15, on a charge of first-degree murder in connection with the slaying of 10-year-old Shirley Alice Kyle in a Kansas City suburb June 25.

The indictment charged the youth attempted to rape the girl and killed her when she resisted.

Circuit Judge James S. Rooney, who earlier had said he was undecided whether Falbo should be tried as a juvenile, ordered the boy to be held without bond. Falbo is in the county jail at Liberty.

Judge Rooney said that if Falbo was tried as a juvenile, an indictment would have no bearing on the case. The indictment will prevail if Falbo is tried in circuit court.

Harry Truman Moves To Office in Library

KANSAS CITY (AP)—There was no answer today to telephone calls to 1107, Federal Reserve Bank Building.

Harry S. Truman, the suite's tenant for the past four and a half years had moved out.

The former president completed the move today to his new office in the Harry S. Truman Library at Independence, which will be dedicated and turned over to the federal government Saturday.

One of the stipulations made in turning over the library was that Truman have space for his office.

GI's Parents Oppose Trial By the French

MANHASSET, N.Y. — The parents of an American GI accused by the French of killing an Algerian vowed yesterday to "fight against any trial in a French court."

The GI, Specialist 3.c. Dewayne McOsker, 21, could be sentenced to the guillotine if convicted by a French court. He was handed over to French authorities Saturday night under the existing status of forces agreement between France and the United States.

McOsker, a cook, is accused of killing the Algerian in a dispute over payment for two cartons of American cigarettes that McOsker sold him.

The GI's mother, Mrs. Lester McOsker, Manhasset, said her son had never been in any trouble before. "I'm worried," she said, "I can't believe a thing like this ever happened."

A family friend said she had been given sedatives and ordered to bed.

Yesterday the McOskers retained two American attorneys. One, James Fletcher, said the fate of his client may not be determined until the U.S. Supreme Court rules in a similar case involving GI William Girard.

In Paris, Army officials indicated they would seek to have jurisdiction in the McOsker case returned to the United States.

French authorities contend the shooting took place while McOsker was off duty, thereby placing the case in French jurisdiction. Under status of forces agreements, jurisdiction of off-duty crimes revert to the foreign country involved.

Body of Missing Girl Is Found In River

GRANTS PASS, Ore. — A low-flying airplane yesterday ended a massive four-day search when it spotted the body of Cheryl Lea Johnston floating in the Rogue River near this southern Oregon town.

About 2,000 persons had searched for the girl since she disappeared Saturday from a picnic area along the stream. Her body was recovered about three miles downstream from where she had been attending a children's picnic. She was dressed in a bathing suit.

Coroner Virgil Hull said the child apparently had been in the stream about three days.

Rescue Teams Speed To Large Earthquake Area in North Iran

TEHRAN, Iran — Rescue teams today sped to quake-shattered north Iran, where earth shocks have killed at least 200 persons and caused huge property losses over a 500-mile arc.

Sketchy reports from the disaster area indicated the quakes blasted a path of destruction over the Elburz mountain range, along the Caspian Sea's southern edge and up to the Russian border on the north.

At least 120 Iranian communities were hit. There was no word of what happened on the Russian side of the border. The Soviet Union's big Baku oil production center is on the western side of the Caspian.

Hundreds, perhaps thousands, were believed injured by the devastating quakes, which ranged over an estimated area of 50,000 square miles.

Installation Is Conducted By Optimists

Claude L. Boul was installed as president of the Optimist Club and Mrs. Harold Barrick as president of the Opti-Mrs. Club in a joint installation Tuesday noon at a meeting of the two organizations at Bothwell Hotel.

Installing officer was Dr. H. O. Wilbur and other officers installed were as follows:

Optimist Club—First vice-president, Gerald Cecil; second vice-president, Dick Esser; secretary, Joe Forsee; and board members, Judge Frank Armstrong, Lawrence Ward and Jay Lazerson.

Opti-Mrs. Club—First vice-president, Mrs. H. O. Wilbur; secretary, Mrs. J. W. Bryden, and treasurer, Mrs. Frank Mehl.

Optimist board members held over for this year are Harry Trotman, Bob Lindstrom and Dr. C. J. Blaich.

The general program chairman for the year will be Ed Kuh. Dr. Wilbur told of the many things accomplished during the past year, the sponsoring of the Little League team, the sponsoring of the basketball league and tournament, the float in the Christmas parade, the honoring of outstanding newboys with awards, the Optimist of the Year contest in which a man and a woman were honored for outstanding youth work, the sending of two boys to a summer camp, two life memberships with the money used to spread optimism by organizing new clubs. Dr. Blaich was congratulated by Dr. Wilbur for his very successful year as president and presented with a past president's pin. Dr. Wilbur then gave the club a challenge for even a greater year ahead.

He told of the Opti-Mrs. Club and of the work they were doing in preparing leathercraft to be used at the Crippled Children's Center so the children, in this method of therapy, can learn to use their hands. He told, too, of how the Opti-Mrs. Club assisted so much in the putting on an ice cream social and a chili supper. The men could not have done these things alone, he said, and when, in appreciation for their help, the Optimist Club gave the Opti-Mrs. Club $50, it was returned to them with an additional $50 to be used for boys' work.

The meeting was presided over by Dr. Blaich with invocation by Claude Boul. Singing was led by Charles Hanna with Miss Lillian Fox at the piano.

Dr. Blaich gave to the new president the president's pin and gavel, after which Boul made a short talk. The coming year, he said, is a real challenge. Dr. Blaich, he went on to say, had done an excellent job in the office of president, and the club would have to cooperate with him by working hard to keep going forward. He then presented a bronze plaque on which was the Optimist creed and emblem to Charles Hanna for outstanding work during the year 1956-57 in bringing in the most new members.

Celebrates Premiere

American Showman Throws Champagne Party in London

LONDON — One of Europe's better mass hangovers gripped hundreds of Londoners today in the bleary wake of American champagne-for-everybody party.

"Wow," shouted Todd at 4 a.m. "I knew I forgot something. I forgot aspirin and headache powders. Every guest should have been furnished with some."

As dawn broke over London, at least 500 guests were still enjoying themselves at Todd's large expense.

Aly Khan and his girl friend, French model Bettina, were riding pink and purple horses on the merry-go-round.

Sir Hartley Showcross, the stern-faced attorney general in the last Labor government, danced the rumba to one of the 16 bands.

Singer Eddie Fisher was mistaken for a waiter as he rushed a trayload of champagne to his table.

U.S. Ambassador John Hay Whitney stepped in a deep mud puddle.

And so it went.

Todd threw the party to celebrate the London premiere of his movie "Around the World in 80 Days." The Duchess of Kent and her daughter Princess Alexandra represented the royal family at the film but didn't stay for the party.

For the all night binge, Mike Todd bought out the Battersea amusement park — where James McNeill Whistler used to paint things other than his mother — and hauled his guests across the Thames in a fleet of ferries.

"You never know," smirked the host, "something about the party and the picture might sneak into the papers."

Sneak was hardly the word. "Wild and wonderful and brash and noisy," said the Daily Herald. "London has never seen anything like it."

"Mike Todd pulled his greatest ever stroke of ballyhoo," reported the Daily Mirror, "by turning the center of London into a fantastic Victorian carnival."

"Mad, marvelous, gaudy, supercolossal, stupendous," the Daily Sketch gushed.

The host blew his top almost as many times as the corks blew out of the giant champagne bottles he had flown over from France.

The first explosion occurred when Mrs. Todd — film star Elizabeth Taylor — had to wait for some blue-blooded guests who were late.

"Hell," shouted hubby, "she's having a baby this fall. What would you do if your wife wuz having a baby? Gangway!" And he rushed Liz to a seat.

Biting a white-gloved hankie, "He worries too much about this baby. I hope it's a girl. I am sure the world is not ready for another Mike Todd yet."

Yards of crimson chiffon trailed from her sun-bronzed shoulders to the floor. Her ruby and diamond earrings and necklace glittered.

"We've got to get back to America Thursday," Liz said. "I've got to see my doctor and find out when the baby's due. At the moment I feel it might happen tonight."

But it didn't.

Couple Marries After 60-Year Separation

OKLAHOMA CITY — It wasn't quite a June wedding, but that didn't bother Joe Sprows, 79, of Lamar, Colo., and Mrs. Leota Bowman, 77, Oklahoma City.

After a 60-year separation, the couple, surrounded by their children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren, were married at the bride's home last night.

Daughters and sons were witnesses. Granddaughters had charge of the music and guest book. And a great-granddaughter helped cut the cake.

Sprows and his new bride were high school sweethearts at Noble when Oklahoma was still a territory. Their planned marriage was stopped by her parents, and Sprows left.

Caucuses Can Be Clean

With few exceptions Sedalia's city councilmen currently and in the past have been notable for smoothness in passing or disapproving legislation at regular meetings.

This is accomplished by a device which probably originated as far back as the Stone Age when disputants threw rocks at each other when disagreements arose in open forum around the tribal bonfire. The device is known as the caucus whereby thorn-like tribal problems are given meditation in advance of an open meeting. All members of a group are supposed to support the decision or policy agreed upon in caucus when it is presented in open meeting.

One thing a caucus does is to hurry business matters along, and discourage any open show of discord among councilmen concerning city business being transacted.

Persons who do not understand the mechanics of this method or who are never consulted and are always on the outside trying to look in, declare emphatically that caucuses are not democratic; that these so-called secret meetings in advance of an open council meeting are simply a way to grease the skids on local legislation; that caucuses pave the way for skulduggery and worse evils.

These suppositions are, of course, exaggerations. In a city the size of Sedalia wherein gossip flies thick and fast and no one keeps a secret, it's impossible for a city council, as a group, to consistently pull off shady deals without being exposed before breakfast.

Sedalia currently has a pretty good city council. The members do not all agree on every issue. Certainly there are disagreements in caucuses even over many minor issues.

Other than a gentlemen's agreement to stand fast, there is nothing officially binding about decisions made in caucuses. Any councilman can break over the traces in open council meeting whenever he chooses.

Of course this is not always considered politically expedient, but such break-aways have occurred when a decided difference of opinion arises.

There hasn't been too much griping about Sedalia council caucuses as a means of preparation for an orderly council meeting.

That's probably because of wise and careful leadership, really the major element in keeping caucus methods from becoming crude and crooked.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Other Increases Will Follow Steel Hike

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — The increase in the price of steel will not be the only one to help hike the cost of living this summer. It will be followed by a chain reaction of price increases, all further decreasing the buying power of the white collar worker, the farmer, the school teacher, the older living on a pension, and anyone with a fixed or low income.

Aluminum manufacturers are expected to ask a penny a pound more on Aug. 1, because of a 15-cent-an-hour wage boost. The meat and glass industries will increase prices. The price of men's flannels will go up three cents per pound, ammonia $6 a ton, and the leading TV manufacturers will try to get $20 more per set.

There's already been a lot of agitation about inflation. But you ain't seen nothing yet.

No Tax Cut in '58

Most important political effect of the increased cost of steel will not be felt until about next January. This is the period when politicians will try to carry out that long awaited promise of a cut in taxes.

They won't admit it, but the inside fact is there will be no tax cut.

The reason is quite simple. The increased price of steel, together with other simultaneous, spiraling prices, will add $4 billion to the budget. This just about absorbs the surplus on which both political parties based their promise of a tax cut.

It is no secret that the biggest bill Uncle Sam has to pay is for military hardware. This is the term given battleships, submarines, tanks, armored cars, trucks, and guns. So when the price of steel goes up, the man who feels it most is the Uncle who has to pay for this hardware.

There's another reason why there will be no tax cuts. In addition to the $4 billion extra for hardware, another extra billion will be added to the expense of government because of higher interest rates. Uncle Sam will pay that extra billion just to borrow money.

Messrs. Humphrey and Burgess have hiked the interest rate on government bonds to the highest point since the depression, with the re-

Guest Editorial—

MEXICO (Mo.) LEDGER: Delinquents As Habituals. — The problem of rehabilitating the delinquent has always been the subject of much debate from the hot stove league to the Halls of Ivy. Some of those who are considered authorities on the subject say once an apple shows a spot of rot then it continues a "bad" apple. Any exception only proves the rule.

Now Dr. Patricia O'Neal of Washington University, St. Louis, reports on a followup of children first studied 30 years ago at a child guidance and evaluation clinic and now again as adults.

The result of this study indicates you shouldn't put too much faith in any idea that a juvenile delinquent will "outgrow" his bad habits. In fact she says they will likely go on a lifelong psychiatric illness in most instances.

"The particular psychiatric diseases they manifest as adults are clearly related to the nature of their childhood difficulties," Dr. O'Neal told the American Psychiatric Association convention recently.

Thus, the juvenile delinquent often matures into the anti-social, impulsive, irresponsible adult personality.

The truant or incurable runaway may end up as a schizophrenic.

Since they were not treated when they were children, Dr. O'Neal pointed out, it is not possible to say whether the course of their disease could have been altered.

Most of the children, she pointed out, were handled by the courts rather than the medical profession.

Occasionally, where a juvenile delinquent or truant did turn out to be a symptom-free adult, it was found a favorable change had come into his life.

This included a good marriage, responsibility for children or accumulation of property.

While we are writing about the matter we would like to offer the late Mark Twain's testimony on the subject. "Nature knows no indecencies; man invents them."

sult that interest on the national debt is also at an all-time high.

Ike Gets Kicked

Twice President Eisenhower has appealed to business and labor to hold down prices and wages, and each time he has been promptly kicked in the teeth by the big business leaders who did so much to elect him. Here are the kicks:

Kick No. 1 came just before and after Feb. 6 when the President publicly stated: "When I said business and labor must exercise and must discharge their authority in conformity with the needs of the United States, I wasn't merely asking them to be altruistic. Their long term good is involved, and I am asking them merely to act as enlightened Americans."

"Unless this happens, the United States then has to move in more firmly with so-called controls of some kind."

This got a private horse laugh from business. Reason was that next day, Ike's own Secretary of Commerce, Sinclair Weeks, himself a big businessman, figuratively kicked his boss in the teeth. He stated at his press conference that the administration was not considering wage and price controls at all.

The President had warned business and labor that unless they held down inflation "The United States has to move in more firmly with so-called controls." He did this for the obvious purpose of trying to get business to stop inflation.

Whereupon the man in charge of his business policy cut the ground right out from under his own President.

Kick No. 2 came from another big businessman, James Zellerbach, to whom Ike had given an important diplomatic plum — The Ambassadorship to Italy. As Zellerbach took his post, he increased the price of paper sold by his crown Zellerbach Company. This hit newspapers and magazines all over the nation.

Simultaneously, Crown Zellerbach announced: "The most successful year in the company's 96-year history." Profits went up 13.4 per cent over the preceding year. Despite this and despite Ike's appeal to stop inflation, his own Ambassador brazenly added to inflation.

Kick No. 3 came last week when the giant U.S. Steel Company jacked up its prices just one day after the President again appealed to keep prices down.

Behind The Horse Laugh

There's an interesting reason for the business horse laughs regarding the President's warnings. They figure he doesn't really mean them, that he has no idea of ever getting tough. They base this not only on the Sinclair Weeks' denial but on the well-known Eisenhower policy of "reward your opponents."

For instance, business leaders all knew that Eisenhower did nothing about Zellerbach's price increase — except continue him in the choice reward of Ambassador to Italy. They also knew that Ben Fairless, chief power behind U. S. Steel for years, had been rewarded by Ike. He was appointed coordinator of the President's Citizen Advisers on the mutual security program.

For several weeks it was known that U. S. Steel was going to hike prices on July 1. It had been printed in the trade press and was reported by this writer. Obviously the White House knew it. But no heat was applied to Ben Fairless and other steel moguls, most of them heavy contributors to the Eisenhower election campaign. Technically Ben Fairless is out of the Steel Corporation, but he still exercises potent influence.

So business leaders, watching the Eisenhower policy of sweetness and light, go blithely on their price-raising way.

Note — In his last press conference, the President reversed his Feb. 6 warning that there might be wage and price controls. He said controls were the way to bring the socialism which Khrushchev predicted for the USA. Many economists say that uncontrolled inflation is a quicker way to bring it. Inflation has already brought socialism to a good part of Europe.

US, Soviet Long Way From Agreement

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON — The big bang—the explosion of nuclear weapons being tested—may still be heard on the Fourth of July a year from now.

The United States and Russia have made a little progress toward agreeing on an end to the tests and on disarmament. Both sides have made some concessions.

That's a long way from real or final agreement. They're talking mostly about general principles now. The whole business may blow up when they get down to details.

This country is laying down conditions the Russians may refuse. And the Eisenhower administration itself seems divided on whether there should be agreement.

That probably explains in part why Harold Stassen — representing this country at the disarmament talks in London — has been so long getting to the point.

This step-by-step story shows where the two countries have shifted ground and where they are now.

This country has consistently argued any general agreement on disarmament must be accompanied by an inspection system in the United States and Russia to prevent cheating. The Russians had consistently opposed letting outsiders inside Russia.

At the Big Four summit meeting in Geneva in 1955 President Eisenhower — as a step towards reaching agreement on a full inspection system — said both countries should agree to inspection by each other from the air.

Looking Backward...

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Rev. H. U. Campbell, Springfield, formerly of Sedalia, was to occupy the pulpit in the Fifth Street Methodist Church Sunday, June 3, taking the place of the Rev. E.D. Baker, who was out of the city.

Miss Daisy Kemp, a former teacher in Sedalia schools, during a trip through the east attended a Confederate reunion at Richmond, Va., and spent a portion of her absence in Washington, D. C.

Mrs. Louis Whitbeck and son, who left for a visit at Sodus, N. Y., had a boat trip from Cleveland, O., to Buffalo, N. Y.

Mrs. E. Dexheimer, with the Children's Bureau of the State Board of Charities, was here from Jefferson City conferring on welfare matters.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Charles H. Bard, jeweler, arrived home from Minneapolis, Minn., where he attended the Imperial Council of the Mystic Shrine. A Minneapolis newspaper published a picture of Mr. Bard on an elephant as he had appeared in a Shriner's parade.

Nineteen carloads of fat cattle were shipped out of Hughesville for the St. Louis market Saturday, Sunday and Monday, June 30, July 1 and 2.

Dr. F. B. Long, registrar for vital statistics, was commissioned through the war department as a first lieutenant in the Missouri Medical Officers' Reserve Corps.

Paul Hamilton, former Tiger football star of the University of Missouri, was in the city as guest of Frank Smith.

The Russians laughed at the idea of aerial inspection. But last Nov. 17 Premier Bulganin wrote to Eisenhower, agreeing to some sky inspection, and some ground inspectors at control points — like airports and railroads.

He linked these things with a reduction in the armed forces of the two countries — he said they should cut down to 2½ million men — and with an end to nuclear weapons production and testing.

But in January the United States, going before the United Nations, laid down its position which remained the American position until recently. This was it:

First, an agreement to end the production of nuclear weapons. That would require an inspection system. After production definitely had stopped, there could be an agreement on ending nuclear tests. That, too, would require inspectors.

This country took notice of Bulganin's proposal for cutting the armed forces to 2½ million men but said that would require inspection too. In short, inspection all the way.

In March the disarmament talks were resumed in London among the United States, Russia, Britain, France and Canada. Stassen talked for this country, but not much. The talks dawdled for weeks, on all sides.

On April 30 the Russians — elaborating on Bulganin's proposal of last November, which was a concession to Eisenhower's aerial inspection proposal — suggested some limited sky inspection of the United States and Russia.

Under the proposal the western half of the United States could be examined but only the eastern part of Siberia would be exposed to American photographers.

On June 14 Russia went further: it agreed, as part of a ban on testing nuclear weapons — to let foreign inspectors inside Russia.

The Russians didn't go into details, so it's difficult to see whether this differed much from Bulganin's idea of last November on permitting inspectors in at airports and railroads. But this Russian move apparently forced a shift in the American position.

Now, reversing what it said in January, this country proposes stopping nuclear tests first — but with an inspection system — provided the Russians agree that

Thinking It Over

By Robert L. Dieffenbacher, D.D.

Group discipline is particularly effective with people who do not respond to individual reasoning or personal kindness or even authoritative demand. Threats, reprimands, scoldings, criticism and even punishment are less influential in changing behavior than group disapproval or group pressure.

Behavior can be changed a great deal by the pressure of several people who do no more than ignore the person whose actions are not acceptable to the group. All of us like to be liked. We all want recognition and social acceptance. We want to be on "the team." We like to be appreciated.

If we gave as much attention to obeying God's rules as we do to seeking social acceptance, we should probably find ourselves with satisfaction in our own minds as well as in social approval. We need self-discipline as well as group discipline.

vided the Russians agree that sometime later there will be an end to weapons production. This too would require inspectors.

The United States also suggests now — as part of a general disarmament plan — an immediate armed forces reduction to 2½ million men.

But Secretary of State Dulles a week ago made it clear that one agreement depends on another. And where that leads no one knows. The full American position hasn't been laid out yet. Nor has the full Russian position.

The disarmament talks still can blow up when the United States and Russia get down to talking on how they'd actually carry out anything they agreed to in principle.

It's The LAW!

The right of free speech is not a permit to defame!

When you criticize a public official — even to demanding that he be thrown out of office — you are following a cherished American custom that is possible because of the guarantees set forth in our Constitution and Bill of Rights.

The right of free speech permits us to be very outspoken against public officials. Baseball players and managers, football coaches and movie stars, also find that they have to bear the written and spoken criticism that goes with fame.

But what are the rights of the individual — office holder or private citizen — when such criticism exceeds the bounds? False or malicious defamation either by spoken or written word can injure good reputations or subject persons to public contempt or ridicule.

The law places limits on what can be said or written about a person, and provides the right to sue the speaker or writer for damages actually resulting from injury to reputation. For example, it is defamatory to state falsely that a person is a crook, a quack, or a cheat.

Such defamation can be spoken, which is then called slander, or written, which is termed libel. Libel is considered a more serious wrong than slander, because it is more permanent and usually more widely distributed. In any case, no defamation can occur until the remark or writing is communicated to a third person. It is not legally wrong, for example, to accuse another of a crime face to face. The law protects only our reputations, not our feelings.

Sometimes it is in the best interests of the public that statements that are otherwise slanderous or libelous be permitted through what is known as legal privileges. Your newspaper is permitted to publish the account of an arrest, and to describe the charges, even though the person may later be proved innocent. You are free to report your suspicions of crime to a policeman, or to testify in court to another's wrongful conduct.

In Missouri there are certain situations in which statements can be made with "absolute privilege" against liability for defamation, even if the speaker knows the words to be false and utters them out of pure spite. In general, these include statements made by officials of judicial and legislative bodies in judicial and legislative proceedings, and statements made with consent of the person to whom they refer.

The law also provides "condi-

Congress vs. Judiciary

Power to Try For Contempt Issues Have Precedent

By Joseph A. Dear
Of Our Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Two ex-RCA employees, Trautman and Testa, who refused to testify before the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee, may be tried for contempt by the Senate itself.

This may be the Congressional response to a recent Supreme Court decision, which apparently affords more protection from contempt convictions to silent witnesses. The theory is that the House and Senate can try and punish contempt without regard for the Judiciary.

Senator Roman Hruska, acting subcommittee chairman, cryptically mentioned the possibility of a Senate trial for Trautman and Testa after their hearing. Both fell back on the First Amendment, which guarantees free speech, and not the Fifth Amendment, which provides protection against self-incrimination.

The Supreme Court has upset

Says Color Not Factor With Christ

NEW YORK — Evangelist Billy Graham told his audience at Madison Square Garden last night that Christ, in expressing love, did not take into account skin color, station in life or any of the other standards sometimes practiced today.

Graham said good Christians love their neighbors regardless of the color of their skin.

Addressing a seating capacity crowd of 18,500, he said Christians should take their cues from Christ and the Bible.

"The Bible teaches that God looks on the heart—not outward appearance," said the evangelist from North Carolina.

In discussing the attributes of a Christian, Graham took as his text First John 5:13 — "These things have I written unto you that believe in the name of the son of God that ye may know that ye have eternal life."

There were 498 "decisions for Christ" last night at Graham's call. This made a total to date of 26,949 since his New York crusade opened May 15.

Graham announced that his crusade had broken Madison Square Garden's record for cumulative attendance. He has drawn an announced total of 824,300 persons to the Garden so far in the crusade which continues until July 20.

The previous record was made in 1947 when a circus (Ringling Brothers, Barnum & Bailey) drew a total attendance of 785,813.

Actually the old mark was passed last Saturday night when the cumulative total for Graham's meetings rose to 786,600. But the fact that a record had been broken could not be confirmed by Garden officials until yesterday.

tional privilege," which requires that the writer or speaker have a good motive in making the statement, as well as a reasonable belief in its truth. Such situations involve comment on matters of public interest; the giving of information to the police to prevent crime; and reporting of judicial or legislative proceedings.

Truth is a defense in an action in Missouri, as in most other states. The laws governing libel and slander protect the individual against wrongful injury, just as the right of free speech permits him to speak out against injustice and tyranny.

Herd Neglect Can Effect Entire Year

Neglect of the dairy herd when hot weather arrives can affect dairy profits through the entire year.

Dairymen know that milk production must be maintained through the summer months because if the cows go down in production, they are hard to bring back. This leaves production low throughout the late summer and perhaps fall when prices are highest and quotas are being set.

The essentials for maintaining production in summer are: a. Keep cows comfortable. b. Provide a plentiful supply of palatable feed. c. Hot weather affects the appetite and therefore the feed intake of cattle. Therefore cows should be provided with shade and plenty of water near the pasture fields. Flies and other insects should be controlled. Some dairymen are building a framework covered with brush for shade in pastures devoid of trees. Of course, ponds adjacent to pastures are a great help.

In the matter of feed supply, pasture is thought of first because it is the cheapest source of nutrients and the natural feed of cattle as well. In general, pasture crops decline in protein, in palatability and often in abundance as the season advances. This creates several problems. Fresh pastures are advisable as they always stimulate production.

Lepespedeza and sudan grass are widely used as summer pastures because they grow under hot dry conditions.

The problem of supplementing summer pastures must not be overlooked. The cow will not eat as much pasture now as she did

Unexpected Results

READING, Pa. (P)—A chemical intended to eliminate a thick scum from Carsonia Lake had an entirely unexpected result — it killed practically all the fish.

Officials put the chemical in the water to get rid of algae, tiny marine plants that caused the scum.

The algae were destroyed but some 10,000 dead fish floated in the two-block long lake, used chiefly for fishing and boating.

The chemical was believed to have been used when the water being too warm, causing the fish to smother.

in the early spring. This calls for more supplement, especially for high producing cows. Grass is less palatable in the late summer and a day's grazing may supply only a third as much protein as it did earlier. Total digestible nutrients in the pasture consumed may be down to one-half to two-thirds of requirements, all of which calls for supplements that provide more protein as well as more total nutrients.

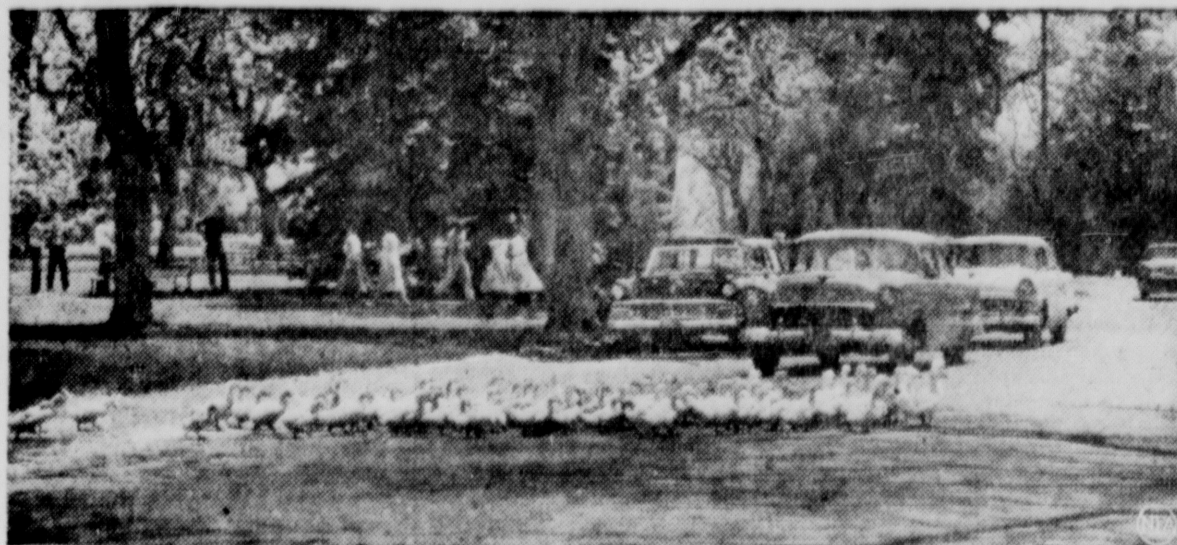

Where straight grain mixtures running 8 to 10 per cent protein together with a little grass hay was adequate for the early grazing season, you may now need more supplementary feed containing more protein, such as mixed or legume hay and a 14 to 16 per cent protein concentrate mix.

Larry Baker Has Much To Gain In 10-Round Bout Against Ortega

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Hard-hitting Larry Baker has much to gain and little to lose tonight when the New York welterweight meets favorite Gaspar Ortega in a 10-round main event at Miami Beach Auditorium.

Ortega, on the other hand, will be risking a possible winter chance at Carmen Basilio's welterweight title. The Mexican, ranked second in ring ratings, seemed headed for an autumn fight with the welter champ until Basilio agreed to meet middleweight titleholder Sugar Ray Robinson in September.

Baker's ring career includes 20 victories, 10 losses and three draws. The fight will be televised nationally (ABC) beginning at 8 p.m.

Little LEAGUERS

Monday night's Little League baseball was rained out but Tuesday night the Kiwanis beat the Elks by a score of 9 to 6. Don Wilhite pitched for the Kiwanis Club and received credit for the victory. Floyd Self got the loss for the Elks Club.

The second game between Adco and Sedalia Ice was a thriller with Fletcher going for the Adco club and Randall pitching for Sedalia Ice. Neither of these two pitchers had lost a game. Fletcher is a speed ball pitcher and Randall mixes a curve with his pitches.

The game was tied up going into the last half of the sixth inning when Simon, lead off man in this inning for Adco, got a double. Ice pulled Randall and sent Glenn Whitney to the mound. He struck out Fletcher but Bereno sent an infield ground ball that should have been a routine out. Simon advanced to third, then came home on an error by Young who dropped the ball trying to tag Simon at the plate. Final score was Adco, 5 runs, six hits and one error, Sedalia Ice, four runs, six hits and one error.

A fine job of coaching by both managers made this one of the best ball games ever played at Little League stadium.

The largest crowd of the season saw these two games.

On Wednesday the Elks play Rotary at 6 p.m. and the Jaycees and Adco play at 8 p.m.

The rained out game between the Jaycees and Adco will be played Friday night.

Setter Gives Birth To 13 Puppies; Has Trouble Feeding Them

EL CAJON, Calif. (AP)—A one-year-old Irish setter has given birth to 13 puppies in her first litter.

Dr. Glen G. Crosbie, veterinarian, said it was the largest dog litter he ever heard of.

The mother, named Candy and owned by Mr. and Mrs. John Fitzgerald, was trying her best to feed all the puppies. But she'll need help, Crosbie said.

More Braves Are Named To All-Stars

CINCINNATI (AP)—Manager Walter Alston of the Brooklyn Dodgers dipped deep into the ranks of the Milwaukee Braves today to complete a 25-man National League squad that will meet American Leaguers in the annual major league All-Star Game at St. Louis July 9.

Alston, as manager of the 1956 league champion Dodgers, will pilot the All-Stars. He picked five Braves, including All-Star veteran pitcher Warren Spahn.

Hank Aaron of the Braves already had been named by Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick as right fielder in place of Wally Post of the Cincinnati Redlegs, who led a fans' vote which Frick said was "unbalanced" by an avalanche of votes from Cincinnati.

Alston's selections, plus the fans' vote for Don Hoak of Cincinnati as the starting third baseman, gave the National League eight "freshmen," as far as All-Star competition is concerned.

But the National League also had the "All Star" of All-Stars in first baseman Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals, named for the 14th time.

Milwaukeeans named by Alston, as announced from National League headquarters, were pitchers Lew Burdette and Spahn and infielders Eddie Mathews, Johnny Logan and Red Schoendienst.

Alston named four right-handers and three southpaws on his hurling staff and, among them, they had a combined 47 won and 29 lost record through games of last Friday.

Spahn of the Braves is the most seasoned All-Star veteran. He has been on eight previous All-Star squads.

Curt Simmons of the Philadelphia Phils and Johnny Antonelli of the New York Giants will be the other southpaws while the right-handers will be Burdette, Larry Jackson of the St. Louis Cardinals, Clem Labine of Alston's Dodgers and Jack Sanford of the Phils.

Burdette, Jackson and Sanford are first timers.

The starting outfield will be Aaron, Willie Mays of the Giants and Frank Robinson of the Cincinnati Redlegs. To back them up, Alston picked Gus Bell of the Redlegs, and two newcomers to All-Star play, Gino Cimoli of the Dodgers and Wally Moon of the Cardinals.

Supporting the starting infield of Hoak, Roy McMillan and Johnny Temple of Cincinnati and Musial of the Cards will be Alston's selections of Ernie Banks of the Chicago Cubs, Gil Hodges of the Dodgers, and Logan, Schoendienst and Mathews of the Braves. Alston picked Hank Foiles of the Pittsburgh Pirates and Hal Smith of the Cardinals, both first year men in All-Star competition, to back up starting catcher Ed Bailey of the Redlegs.

Judge Grants Stay For Boxing Club To Appeal Ruling

NEW YORK (AP)—The International Boxing Club was conducting business at the same old stand today and will continue to do so until at least Nov. 1, courtesy of Federal Judge Sylvester J. Ryan.

Judge Ryan yesterday ordered Jim Norris and Arthur Wirtz, the two top wheels in the IBC, to break up the club, but immediately granted them a four-month stay to enable them to appeal to the Supreme Court.

"Our present thinking is that we will appeal," said Norris. Judge Ryan said the IBC must file for the review within 60 days or the government could nullify the stay he granted. Norris agreed to have his attorneys ask for the review.

Honor Prisoner Lost

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP)—Salvatore Eugene Laws, 29, of Graham, an honor prisoner at the county prison farm here, was supposed to take a truck from Farm 1 to Farm No. 2.

Hours later, he called from Danville, Va., to tell officials the truck was there. So it was. But Laws, who had only 16 days left to serve, was not. He hasn't been seen since.

SPORTS

JUST PLAIN MAD—Manager Kerby Farrell of Cleveland had his feet planted as if to throw a punch—and his face showed he was mad enough—at Umpire John Stevens during a squabble. Stevens was in motion, too—he gave Kerby the old heave-ho here. Coach Eddie Stanky (No. 44), no amateur at stirring trouble, came on Stevens from the rear.

Changes Often

National League Pennant Race More Like Weather

By DON WEISS
The Associated Press

This changeable National League baseball race gets more like the weather all the time. If you don't like the way things are going, stick around a few minutes.

There have been seven changes in the lead during the last month alone.

Cincinnati's on top now after a three-week absence, the result of an 8-6 victory over Chicago yesterday afternoon coupled with Milwaukee's 4-2 loss last night to Von McDaniel, fabulous teen-ager of the St. Louis Cardinals.

But the Braves, trailing by half a game, are matched with the Redlegs in Cincinnati tonight and could move back up by winning the Pittsburgh Pirates and Hal Smith of the Cardinals, both first year men in All-Star competition, to back up starting catcher Ed Bailey of the Redlegs.

Cincinnati blew a five-run lead built by Wally Post's bases-loaded homer and trailed the Cubs 6-5 until Ed Bailey homered to tie it in the eighth. Doubles by George Crowe and Don Hoak featured the 10th-inning wrapup, which gave Jim Sanchez the victory over Lee Walls hit for the single-double-triple-homer cycle for Chicago, first in the majors in nearly three years.

Maglie, pitching for the first time since Memorial Day, fired a four-hitter at his ex-mates in recording his 24th major league shutout and the Dodgers' second as a result of Larry Doby's three-run homer in the eighth.

Boston edged Washington 2-1 to take over third place by a .005 percentage from Cleveland, which was idle along with Kansas City.

McDaniel, signed out of high school for $50,000 six weeks ago, had a perfect game for six innings, retiring the first 18 batters, before Bill Bruton led off the seventh with a single. Three more hits produced two runs and when the youngster gave up another hit in the eighth, Hoyt Wilhelm came in from the bullpen to close out the last two innings.

Del Ennis, with a home run and double, drove in 2 Cardinals runs off Warren Spahn, the Milwaukee loser.

Teenager Puts Lid on Braves With 4-2 Win

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A baseball miracle appeared to be in the making for six tense innings last night as an 18-year-old boy pitched a perfect game against the powerful Milwaukee Braves.

Von McDaniel, the St. Louis Cardinals' sensational bonus pitcher just six weeks out of high school at Hollis, Okla., retired the first 18 Braves to face him. He weakened in the seventh, but with the help of relief ace Hoyt Wilhelm, won his fourth straight victory, 4-2, and knocked the Braves out of the National League lead.

The Oklahoma lad, younger brother of the Cards' Lindy McDaniel, was quite aware that he had a perfect game going, he said later, but thought it was "unlikely" that he could hold Milwaukee hitless.

"They told me I didn't have as much stuff in the seventh," Von said after talking with Manager Fred Hutchinson and catcher Hal Smith.

"It might be that I have learned to pace myself over nine innings, but I have pitched nine innings in legion ball." His high school games were limited to seven innings.

The $50,000 bonus boy who hasn't lost a major league game, had 29,211 fans—the season's largest crowd at Busch Stadium—sitting on the edges of their seats before his potential no-hitter evaporated with Bill Bruton's lead-off single in the seventh.

Before the Braves were retired, Red Schoendienst doubled and Hank Aaron and Wes Covington singled. McDaniel yielded a fifth hit before Wilhelm relieved him in the eighth inning.

The losing pitcher was Warren Spahn, twice McDaniel's age. Spahn broke into pro ball just after the young Cardinal pitcher was born.

McDaniel, who shut out the Brooklyn Dodgers on two hits in his first start June 21, has yielded 14 hits and six runs in 32-3 innings.

Brother Lindy, who also received a $50,000 bonus when he signed with the Cards, will try for his ninth victory in Chicago today.

straight blanking of the Giants. Curt Barclay lost it.

Pierce, loser of his last four, held the Tigers to five hits but trailed 2-1 to Frank Lary until Doby connected with two on in the eighth. Frank Bolling's 10th homer was the only earned run off Pierce, now 11-6.

Sammy White did Boston's clutch hitting to back up Frank Sullivan's six-in, eight-strikeout performance against the Senators. The tall catcher drove in the first run with a single and the winner with a sacrifice fly. Loser Camilo Pascual and Russ Kemmerer permitted only three hits to the Red Sox.

The next open-air match will be held at Liberty on Tuesday, July 16.

FIGHTS SUIT—Wayne Poulson, owner of 32 acres of land in Squaw Valley, Calif., needed for the 1960 winter Olympics, says he will fight in every possible way a threatened suit by the California Olympic Commission to condemn the land. Poulson said he was surprised by the condemnation move and said "I believe it to be outright fraud." He issued his statement in Los Angeles before flying to Honolulu for Pan American Airways.

Berry Defeats Atlas In Bout Here Tuesday

Wild Red Barry matched his craftiness against strong man Mighty Atlas and gained a third fall decision over the hefty grappler Tuesday night in the first outing of the summer session of wrestling at Liberty Park.

Both nationally-known stars on the mat, Berry, of Pittsburg, Kan., and Atlas, of Hollywood, Calif., went the full three falls before the referee disqualified Atlas for roughness on the ropes and refusal to break and awarded the match to Berry. Wild Red had won the first fall with a leg lock in 11 minutes and five seconds, and Atlas took the second fall with a full nelson in eight minutes and seven seconds.

In the midge team-tag match, Chief Red Feather, Stillwell, Okla., and Silent McGregor, Halifax, Nova Scotia, teamed up to win in three falls over Bull Brummel, Ottawa, Canada, and Pee Wee James, Montreal, Canada. For the first fall, James cuffed McGregor with a body slam and press in 14 minutes and 48 seconds. Red Feather defeated Brummel in the second fall with a leg lock in seven minutes and 46 seconds. The third fall went to Red Feather over James with a press in five minutes and two seconds.

James proceeded to level matters with Red Feather and whipped the Chief by applying the Boston crab to win in ten minutes, 30 seconds.

The next open-air match will be held at Liberty on Tuesday, July 16.

Country Club Still Third In Inter-City

Walker and Comfort Lead Sedalia Team; Van Dyne Scores 70

Sedalia Country Club's ten-man team remained in third place after last week's third Inter-City golf match held at Columbia, while the Columbians took advantage of their home play to topple Jefferson City from the No. 1 position.

Columbia boosted its total points to 899½ for the three matches while Jefferson City held a challenging position in second place with 895 points. Sedalia's total stood at 806 and Fulton continued in the cellar spot of the four teams with 647½.

Ralph Walker paced the Sedalians with a 73 for the 18 holes, followed by Bernard Stanfield who finished in 74. Norman Comfort pulled in top points, 32½, and Walker collected 32.

Youthful Vic Van Dyne underscored the current invasion by the younger golfing set at the Sedalia club by winning unofficial medal honors of the match with a 70. Van Dyne, playing as a Sedalia alternate, bettered a field of 48 golfers, including Jefferson City's Jim Tom Blair III, with his two-under-par performance.

The last match of the series will be played at the Country Club here on Thursday, July 11.

Hot Weather Blocks Food Delivery to Men

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP)—Hot weather blocked delivery of weekly mail and fresh food to nine American scientists and some U. S. airmen living on a floating ice island near the North Pole.

Two Air Force C47s circled the island for 12 hours before returning to Barrow, 500 miles south, for refueling before coming back to Ladd Air Force Base here.

Capt. James H. Graham Jr. and Lt. Lloyd S. Kurth, pilots of the planes, said it was impossible to land on the ice landing strip of the island because it was too soft.

'Better Job' Can Renew GI Eligibility

Sale of veteran's GI-purchased home because of a new and better job in a different city may entitle him to new GI loan eligibility, even though the job change was voluntary, W. F. Fidler of the local VA office said today.

"Better job" is defined as being one that would increase the veteran's income or provide him with greater opportunity for advancement. Restoration of GI loan eligibility formerly was made only if the job change or transfer to another city was involuntary or beyond the veteran's control.

The new ruling also applies to veterans moving to a different city after retirement.

However, no GI loan entitlement can be restored unless the VA is relieved of liability on the old loan. This generally is accomplished by payment of the loan in full, either by the veteran or the new purchaser.

Other circumstances under which a veteran may be entitled to a new GI loan eligibility are when the property:

1. Was taken by a governmental agency for public use;
2. Was destroyed by natural hazard; or,
3. Was disposed of for compelling reasons of health or other specified reasons beyond control of the veteran.

After the officials reported they were taking a "summer vacation" because they "have nothing to do," Kurz said he'd be happy to

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Murrow's Talk With Tito Had Sound Effects

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—To most Western minds the big question about Yugoslavia is how independent is it as a nation?

Television is such a convincing medium that we instinctively believed President Tito would settle all untidy questions about his country when he came before the American TV audience.

That he did not, wasn't a fault in the nature of television journalism but was basic to the nature of being a chief of state. A chief of state simply cannot go before an audience of millions and tip his hand too far.

Edward R. Murrow performed an enterprising job when he flew to Yugoslavia and recorded a filmed interview with Tito for a special "See It Now" program on CBS-TV Sunday. Three hours of film made at Tito's retreat in the Adriatic were cut to a hour. A panel discussion of Tito's remarks followed.

To this viewer the Tito interview was one of those instances in which a daily newspaper is a necessary adjunct to a TV set. Although most people wish to keep intelligently informed on foreign news, how many viewers understood what was new and significant in the interview? The panel which CBS thoughtfully provided, consisting of Mrs. Clare Boothe Luce, foreign affairs editor Hamilton Fish Armstrong, William H. Lawrence of the New York Times, and CBS correspondent Richard C. Hottelet, failed to clarify much to me.

Not until I read news stories and a specialist's analysis of the interview was I able to put it in perspective.

This does not mean that the Murrow interview was a failure. The fact that Tito spoke elliptically and that the translations were slow and groping gave one a great sense of reality. You felt that you were indeed there.

Flies Can Bring Damage To Poultry

Flies, in addition to being a nuisance around the poultry house, can also cause severe damage to the laying flock, say University of Missouri extension poultry specialists.

The pests are intermediate hosts to tapeworms in chickens and the trouble starts when hens eat carrier flies. It's much easier to control flies and other insects around the laying house than it is to control tapeworms once they are established in a flock.

The first essential of good fly control, say the specialists, is to eliminate breeding grounds. This can be accomplished to some extent by mowing weeds and shrubs around the laying house. Also, they advise the removal of any manure piles near the building and the cleaning up of loose litter that may be scattered outside the doors. Wet litter is a natural habitat for flies during the summer months.

Manure accumulations under the droppings pit account for much of the fly problem inside the laying house. Here, it's a good practice to scatter superphosphate over the droppings to keep them dry and less attractive to flies as a breeding place.

If flies continue to be troublesome in spite of these preventive measures, a regular spraying of the pits is recommended every five to seven days. Use a pint of 35 per cent malathion emulsifiable concentrate in six gallons of water for the best results, the poultrymen note.

Although flies may continue to lay eggs on the sprayed manure, the spray will kill most of the maggots before they have a chance to become adult flies.

The specialists caution poultrymen not to use a spray material named diazinon in the laying house. The material is extremely toxic for chickens as well as for flies.

Surveys Indicate Holiday Has Lost Its Glamor for Teenagers

By EUGENE GILBERT

For most American teenagers, the magic of the Fourth of July was somehow lost in the ban on fireworks and the tangle of holiday traffic.

Our national surveys indicate that the Fourth doesn't stir the hearts of modern teen-agers to any real degree. They find more excitement in family holidays than they do in Independence Day.

Nearly half of the teen-agers questioned by our interviewers felt their parents got a bigger kick out of the Fourth, say 20 years ago, than present teen-agers get today.

One possibility, it seems, is that school is out when the Fourth is celebrated and there doesn't seem to be any special agency to focus teen-age attention on the holiday or to point up its importance.

It seems to be a fact also that the lack of accessible organized fireworks displays figures in the lack of enthusiasm. Nothing has come up to take the place of fireworks as a symbol of the meaning of the Fourth.

"I like the Christmas, Thanksgiving kind of holidays," explained one college sophomore. "We all get together for a big turkey dinner and family conclave. It's a wonderful feeling of belonging. July 4th doesn't offer anything like that."

"The Fourth is nothing to me," noted a 14-year-old girl. "Just an excuse for Dad to get a long weekend off from work."

"July 4th," asserted a Minneapolis youth, "is just another excuse for politicians to blow off steam on everything under the sun. The meaning of the day died with the signers of the Declaration of Independence."

Against the 50 per cent who feel their folks had more Independence Day fun are just 16 per cent who think their folks as teen-agers had less Fourth of July kicks. Another 34 per cent figure the Fourth is about the same today as it was yesterday, funwise.

Let 15-year-old Joel speak for the group who believes the Fourth hasn't changed too much. He said: "What could be so different? They had parties; we have parties. They had picnics; we do the same. Young people always do the same things no matter when they were young."

And then there is the Newark, N.J., miss who said today's parents couldn't possibly have had as much fun because "They were so charmed, they weren't permitted to breathe by themselves."

But perhaps most representative is 17-year-old Jennie who said: "Maybe if we made a bigger deal out of the Fourth like our parents used to do, it would mean more to us."

This seems to be the crux of most of the objections as evidenced by the answers to another question put to our national sampling. The question was:

"Should fireworks be made legal in all states for celebrating the Fourth or should they be outlawed all over?"

A hefty 57 per cent of the teen-agers said that fireworks, now banned in 30 of the 48 states, should be made uniformly legal.

"It's no fun without fireworks," said one crew cut lad. "They made the Fourth of July a big occasion." But a surprising large number of teen-agers discount the celebration value of the roman candles, firecrackers and sky rockets all together.

Forty-one per cent answered that fireworks should be made illegal—and many of these qualified their answer with remarks that they are a genuine danger to life and health.

As 16-year-old Kyle sadly recalled, "My cousin lost his eye because of a firecracker. I wouldn't want to see it happen to anyone else."

Generally speaking the Fourth has, it seems, fallen in importance in the teen-age mind, and this could be a reflection of parental attitude to the Fourth.

Too often the kind of response to questions was, "The city was real empty on that weekend—my family didn't go away but we had dinner with my grandparents."

Or: "Last year the Fourth was a Monday wasn't it? I remember because all the weekend people stayed over and the beach was horribly crowded. I live at the beach all summer, and I like it much better when the Fourth comes in the middle of the week. Too many people."

How did teen-agers celebrate the Fourth last year?

Our survey turned up the astonishing note that two out of three did not celebrate it at all. Less than one per cent reported that they had heard a patriotic speech. Only some 25 per cent said they saw a fireworks display and a full 15 per cent couldn't give the year of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

One teen-ager, asked to rank holidays in their importance to him, put New Year's Eve, Christmas and Valentine's Day in that order. Asked what about the Fourth of July, he said:

"Oh that comes in the summer. I like winter holidays better."

Younger groups in our survey ranked Halloween as one of the top holidays in the year, followed by Christmas and Valentine's Day.

Aged Recluse Leaves $2 Million Estate To Five Agencies

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP)—Five agencies will share equally in a two-million-dollar estate left by an aged recluse who weighed about 70 pounds when she died.

One of the beneficiaries revealed that Georgia Stafford Stone, 80, created a voluntary trust agreement in 1931 bequeathing the net income from the trust to the Community Chest, Salvation Army, Christ Church Cathedral, Connecticut Institute for the Blind and the Connecticut Humane Society.

The Greater Hartford Community Chest made the announcement.

The body of the West Hartford woman was found in her home June 20. She had been dead about 24 hours.

Neighbors said she hadn't had any visitors for more than 20 years. The windows in her house were reinforced with small metal bars—fastened behind the mold-

Lost Airliner Found In East Pakistan; All Aboard Are Safe

KARACHI (AP)—A missing Pakistan airliner was found in East Pakistan today with all 24 persons aboard safe.

ing between each pane. Police had to cut through the bars of one window to enter the house.

Miss Stone drew her income from the trust fund. Her bank could not say how she made the money, nor could it furnish any details about her life.

According to her death certificate, she was born in December 1876, in Cleveland, Ohio, the daughter of Silas and Lillie Hart Stone.

Man Recalls Fatal Night When Five Died in His Car

Editor's note: Every fatal wreck leaves its human debris. On the eve of a long July 4 weekend, a convict, serving 7-10 years for manslaughter, tells of his nightmares as he recalls the fatal night his five friends were killed in his car. Here is his copyrighted story from the Southern Michigan Prison newspaper, The Spectator. Only the writer's name is fictitious.

By JOHN TEMCLO

JACKSON, Mich. (AP)—Ever drive a car from a prison cell? I do. It is not the kind of drive that makes for pleasant dreams. Instead, it is a nightmare ordeal. I've tried to break the habit. I've even been to the prison mental health clinic. But I still wake up with visions of five young faces that shared the ride, haunting me.

"I'm their driver. It was three years ago. I still am.

My prison sentence is not the real punishment for my murderous, drunken drive that never ends. My prematurely white hair is only an outward sign. My limp and stiff leg don't bother me at all compared with the realization that I turned highway M12 into a concrete murder strip for five friends and neighbors.

The judge said: "A drunken driver is as dangerous to society as a drunken gunman."

Too many drinks at a party and too many passengers in my seven-year-old, souped-up jalopy were things I took with me on that ride three years ago.

There isn't any pain when two speeding cars crash head-on. The pain comes after for the survivors in horrible memories that won't go away.

Like the car I was driving home from the all-night party, the news of what happened came to me second hand.

Six of us piled into the car and headed for a highway drive-in restaurant for breakfast. It had been a gay night with all the fun that only a teen-age crowd can find dancing 'til dawn.

Goofed up with booze and benzedrine, I wheeled the old car with the confidence of a drunk. State troopers told me I drove my jalopy head-on into an oncoming transport truck. Its driver did his best to get out of my crazy path.

His effort to get out of the way may have saved his life. My drunken driving took five lives. The real punishment is the haunting memory of the gay ride turned a death ride. I cannot serve my prison sentence. I cannot bring back my friends.

Police Find Convict Hidden Under Floor Of Mother's House

MANCHESTER, England (AP)—Police last night captured an escaped convict who hid for three weeks in a coffin-sized hole beneath the floorboards of his mother's kitchen.

Detectives said the fugitive, Eric Chambers, 23, was found in a hole 7 feet long, 2½ feet wide and 18 inches deep.

Mrs. Charlotte Chambers, his mother, told newsmen:

"I found Eric on Saturday. He promised he would give himself up, but before he did the police came.

"He said he had been slipping out to eat and wash when the house was empty."

Beauty in motion—Chevrolet Bel Air Sport Sedan with Body by Fisher.

Here's why Chevy's best showroom is the road!

Because Chevrolet's sleek good looks, its advanced features, are only part of the story. The big bonus is its remarkable roadability, the crisp precision handling that has posted an entirely new standard for cars in every price class. You can't read about that . . . but you can feel it in one minute on the road!

Good drivers know roadability is the single thing that means more driving satisfaction for more thousands of miles than anything else. More safety, too, for it grants greater stability on curves, greater traction on wet roads, better "bite" under hard braking, more accurate steering. There are reasons for all this, of course: Chevrolet's balanced weight distribution that takes excessive loads off the front wheels, the wide stance of outrigger rear springs, Ball-Race steering, spherical-joint front suspension. Sure, you can admire the sculptured lines in the showroom. But Chevy's a car specifically designed for beautiful motion—you have to travel in this one to know just how terrific it is. Try it, this week!
